TWO BIG INSULL CONCERNS HELD TO BE BANKRUPT

Federal Judge Sees No Hope For Investment And Securities

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The last slender hope of stockholders 'hat receivership proceedings might salvage part of their $300,000,000 investment in two of Samuel Insull's investment trusts had apparently been shattered today.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, who appointed receivers for the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Company, deposed utility king's most ambitious projects, has decided the best course open was to institute bankruptcy proceedings against both concerns.

"It seems unlikely," Judge Lindley declared, "that the stockholders will receive anything on their investments. The best course of action is to institute bankruptcy proceedings, under which something may be saved for the creditors of the concern."

Both companies have been operating under equity receiverships since April 16. Judge Lindley, at his home in Danville, Ill., last night consented to act on a bankruptcy petition against the concerns presented by a Chicago law firm which represents a group of bondholders in both companies. He will hear the petition next Wednesday.

"Hopelessly Insolvent." Earlier in the evening the receivers for the Corporation Securities Company filed their report in which they held that the investment trust was "hopelessly insolvent."

The assets of the once $140,000,000 concern were so meager, the receiver reported, that they were unable to meet the expense of having an inventory made. A $30,000 tax warrant was the only thing of value.

Yesterday was replete with developments in the investigations being conducted into the affairs of the companies once headed by Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, now both voluntary exiles in foreign lands.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson made public, without comment a list of 205 "favored investors" in the stocks of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., a $250,000,000 enterprise.

Alleged "Favored List." With the list was attached a copy of an agreement purportedly made in January, 1929, by Samuel Insull and the 205 persons whereby they were permitted to purchase 250,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments at $12 a share. A few weeks later the stock was first offered to the public on the Chicago Stock Exchange at $27 a share. Later in the same year, before the stock market collapse of October, the stock reached its peak of $147 a share.

The purchasers, however, were bound in the agreement not to dispose of the stock for two and one-half years without first offering it to the company at its market price. This provision, however, was referred to by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows as "a joker."

Many of the 205 persons listed were Insull employees. Others included Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric Company, against whose name was listed 4,000 shares. Another name given was Trimble, South, 1,000 shares. South Trimble, Clerk of the National House of Representatives, said at Washington last night that he had bought 1,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments at $12 a share. He asserted the purchase was made "before the stock was ever listed at all."

"I should have gotten out," Trimble added, "but I stayed, like everybody else, until it was worthless."

Brokers Listed Halsey Stuart & Co., Chicago and New York, brokerage investment house, was included on the list with the annotation of 47,000 shares.

Rosa Raisa Rimini, star of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, into which Samuel Insull poured part of his millions in the days of his affluence, was listed as the purchaser of 200 shares. A few of the others were Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Chicago banker, 1,000; Pleasant Peabody, head of the Peabody Coal Company, Chicago, 2,000; and Gerald Swape, New York, 2,000.

"The failure of the Corporation Securities Company is easily understood," the receivers reported, "when consideration is given to the last audit of the corporation prepared as of Dec. 31, 1931, which disclosed holdings in the corporation portfolio of Insull Utility Investment stocks which are given a book value of $58,756,202, and stock of the Midwest Utility Company, which had a book value as of that date of $42,829,772."

This stock, carried on the date of the audit as having a book value of approximately $100,000,000 had a tremendously depreciated market value three months later when the Insull utility empire tottered into receivership. The Utility Investments stock has lately been of $2 a share while stock in the Midwest has recently ranged from 25 to 50 cents a share.

DIXON MAN IS CHOSEN HEAD OF BOY SCOUT AREA

J. G. Ralston And Rev. A. B. Whitcombe Are Honored At Meet

John G. Ralston, president of the Reynolds Wire Co. of this city was elected president of the Blackhawk Area Boy Scout Council at the annual meeting and banquet at Oregon last evening, at which time another Dixon man, Rev. A. B. Whitcombe, was also honored, being one of two men presented with the Silver Beaver award.

More than 200 scout executives and their wives met last night for the annual meeting at the Oregon coliseum. Reports made by the retiring president, and by George Driesbach, scout executive, indicated progress in every phase of the northern Illinois scouting movement.

Beaver to Whitcombe
The Silver Beaver award given to two Scouts of the Blackhawk council each year for "distinguished service to boyhood," was given last night to Joseph Franklin John Davis, of Lincoln Park, Rockford and to the Rev. Whitcombe, who initiated the boy, to the Scout movement in this territory in 1911. Davis and Whitcombe, together with Clarence Parks, of East Jordan, and Edward Clark of Rockford, are the only Scout leaders in this area who have been given the coveted award.

Seven scouts of this area were also presented the coveted Eagle badge. Scout Commissioner Fred Conrad made the awards to Peter Miller, troop 35; Charles Kling, troop 35; Stuart Nordquist, troop 35; Harold Kegal, troop 37; and Robert McCann, troop 12, all of Rockford; Kenneth Abbott, troop 89 of Dixon; and Maurice Flegley, troop 96 of Rock Falls.

Stuart Ralston, retiring president, was presented with a 19-jewel gold wrist watch, a gift of 2,000 Scouts, 85 Scoutmasters, 57 assistant Scoutmasters, 82 board members and 234 troop committee members.

Ralston's Acceptance
In accepting the presidency of the Council the Dixon man said, in part:

"It is a great honor to be elected to any office in the Boy Scouts of America, and in accepting the Presidency of the Blackhawk Area Council for the next year, I realize there is much responsibility, as well as honor in holding this office. It shall be my pleasure and duty to enter into this work with a determination to expand the influence of Scouting beyond the lines so successfully reached by the retiring officers. They are entitled to the highest praise from the many communities in this Area, for their able, progressive and devoted management of this Council, and for their strict adherence to budget figures, which has enabled them to show an operating statement without financial loss or red ink—an exceptional showing for any organization these days, whether social service, business, or governmental. The retiring president and officers should feel proud of their accomplishment, and you will all join me in this expression of appreciation.

"This Boy Scout organization in which we are so deeply interested, is largely made up of volunteers. Whatever we undertake voluntarily, or because we want to, are most apt to do well. This partly accounts for the past success of our Council, and this thought gives me confidence that during the next twelve months our new committee should, and will, exceed the records made by our predecessors.

"I want to ask my associate officers and every Scoutmaster to pledge himself, here and now, to enter the game this coming season to win.

"Fortunately we are at this time in this transfer of honors, the backbone of our organization remains intact, to aid, guide and inspire us. That able, enthusiastic and dynamic Scout Executive, George Driesbach, remains on the job, with his experience and well-trained associates; consequently there is every reason why we should come through with a high score.

"Our first undertaking will be to finance our conservative budget for the next year. The drive will start next week. In some respects, this will be harder, and will require more push than usual. But if all contributors are shown the vital importance of supporting this agency for better-disciplined boys, who will soon vote as citizens, there is no doubt but the increasing liberality on the part of some will offset the inability of others to do their part. The greatest possible number of people should be urged to take a personal interest in this work, no matter how small a coin they might contribute.

"Second, Rural Scouting will have our closest attention. The Blackhawk Area has been pioneering in this unusual work, and has met with gratifying success. The tendency is toward a more rural

FLEE, LEAVING ONE WOUNDED ANOTHER DEAD
Officer Was Tinkering Auto Engine When Held Up

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—An unidentified robber was killed and another shot and seriously wounded early today when they, together with three companions, sought to hold up a policeman who was in civilian dress. The robbers wounded William Walsh, 28, who was accompanying the policeman home from a political meeting.

Walsh and the policeman, William Kenney, who is attached to the State's Attorney's staff, experienced motor trouble as they were driving home. They got out to fix the engine. As they did so another car, containing five men drew up alongside. Two men, with drawn revolvers, got out and commanded Kenney and Walsh to "stick 'em up."

Instead of doing so, Kenney quickly drew his revolver and fired eight shots, killing one bandit and seriously wounding another who was later identified as William O'Brien, 29, said by police to be an ex-convict.

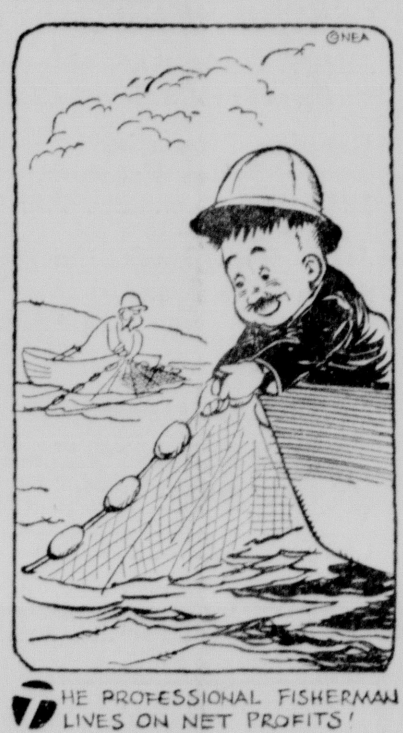

The bandits' three companions drove away when the shooting started. In the exchange of fire Walsh was shot in the abdomen and Kenney's right wrist was grazed by a bullet. Walsh, while seriously injured, was said at the hospital not to be in a critical condition.

CO. DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MET TO PLAN DRIVE

Several Resolutions Are Adopted At Session In Amboy Thursday

The Democratic County Central Committee met in Amboy yesterday afternoon for the transaction of business and to adopt plans for the final weeks of the campaign.

W. E. Clark of Amboy was elected to membership in the committee succeeding W. F. Cotter, deceased. Attorney Edward A. Jones, candidate for State's Attorney; J. R. Fitzsimmons, candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court; M. M. Kenney, an active member of the young men's Democratic organization and several other speakers addressed the assembly. Plans were prepared for a series of public meetings to be held in every township in Lee county during the month of October. During the course of the meeting the following resolutions were adopted by the committee:

Praised Association
"Whereas, the Lee County Taxpayers Association has recognized the principle that any movement to reduce the cost of government must begin at home; has labored zealously and intelligently toward that end, and has presented to the public a sane and sensible program of local tax reduction;

Be it Therefore Resolved by the Democratic County Central Committee of Lee County that the Lee County Taxpayers Association be publicly thanked for its work on behalf of all taxpayers, and assured of the hearty support and cooperation of the Democratic party in its efforts toward reduction of the cost of government."

Be it therefore resolved by the Democratic County Central Committee of Lee County, that a vote of thanks and of commendation be extended to the Lee County Supervisors for their splendid efforts and accomplishments in this regard, and;

Argues 18th Amendment Not Valid Since '26

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The argument that the Eighteenth Amendment is invalid because it never was submitted to the states for ratification was prepared for submission to the United States District Court here today by local attorneys defending an alleged dry law violator.

The attorneys, Morris S. Snyder, John S. L. Vost and Joseph McCormick, have filed a demurrer and motion to quash indictments against their client who is charged with sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

In their brief it is asserted the Eighteenth Amendment has been void since January 17, 1928, because Section 3 of the Amendment reads:

"This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the Congress."

This procedure, they contend, never was literally followed.

OFFICERS DROP CARTER'S CASE; NO WITNESSES

Local Authorities Not To Spend Money To Return Negro

Charles "Cicero" Carter, 29-year-old Negro, who was alleged to have boasted in the Chicago press of his crimes of the past in which he is said to have made reference to a murder two years ago near Dixon, was released from his cell of the Des Plaines street police station in Chicago last evening. After having been held almost 24 hours while an investigation was being conducted here, Sheriff Fred Richardson conferred with State's Attorney Mark C. Keller late yesterday afternoon, after which the Chicago police were notified that Lee county would make no claim for the prisoner and his release was recommended.

Porter in relating to his female friend his escapades as a "bad man," told of shooting and killing another Negro near Dixon two years ago. She bided her time and informed the police, her action resulting in Porter's arrest and detention. The investigation was begun here Thursday morning and it was believed that if Porter had told the Negroes the truth, the period of time had been greater than two years and that he might have figured in the murder of a Negro in Compton in 1928 when a construction firm from Cape Girardeau, Mo., was laying the route 70 paving, or the Eldena murder in 1922 in which a Negro truck laborer was killed during a drinking orgy and card party.

In either instance, local officials were of the opinion that no witnesses could be found in the event that Porter could be connected up with either slaying, and that it would be useless to spend the county funds to bring him to the county jail in Dixon for retention. Acting upon this theory the Chicago police were informed that no attempt would be made to bring the Negro to Lee county and his release was suggested.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.—(AP)—With a prediction party lines would be broken more than ever before in history in the November elections, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today carried his presidential campaign to within 35 miles of the legal residence of President Hoover, whom he hopes to succeed in the White House.

The Democratic nominee's statement that liberal Republicans were giving a "remarkable response" to his plea to forget party lines, was coupled with praise for Senator Hiram Johnson, California independent Republican who has often clashed with President Hoover. Soon after he arrived, Roosevelt was visited by Gov. James Rolph, Jr., a Republican, who came to pay his respects to the Empire State Chief Executive. They had dinner together.

Today was the eleventh of the Roosevelt campaign tour. From here he swings south to Los Angeles and the return journey by way of Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. He will return to Albany on Oct. 3 in time for the state convention of his party.

Before he leaves at 10 P. M., Pacific Standard time tonight, Roosevelt will have made two speeches here. The first at noon before the Commonwealth Club, an organization of leading business and professional men, will be non-political. At 8 P. M., the nominee will name an address in the Civic Auditorium.

LANGLEYVILLE MINERS GIVEN ARMED ESCORT

Guardsmen To Convey Workers To And From Shafts

Langleyville, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Tear gas and smoke bombs burst in the streets of Langleyville today, clearing the way for miners to go to work.

Through a jeering, jibing crowd of citizens Illinois National Guardsmen pushed their way. Machine guns loomed menacingly down the street from each end of the village. In group of six, bayonets fixed, the Guards marched into town, tossing gas bombs ahead and driving out of Langleyville every loiterer who had no residence.

Two weeks ago the Peabody Coal Company mine No. 9 had decided to open, but there were not enough workers at hand at the appointed time. The opening was scheduled, again for 8 o'clock this morning and at dawn the military forces—180 National Guardsmen—supplemented by 40 state police with three Sergeants and Chief Walter Moody from Springfield, moved in to keep off any attempt of pickets to fend the mine shut down.

Guard All Roads
The striking pickets, objecting to resumption of work at the reduced basic wage of $5 a day, converged in small numbers from nearby towns. Residents, jeering but sullen, joined them in the streets during early morning, but as dawn came the soldiers marched in, warning that there would be no loitering, no picketing, and driving from the street all who had no business. Roads into Langleyville from every direction were patrolled by the Guardsmen to make the way safe for the 200 miners to go back to the diggings long abandoned.

Langleyville, a mining hamlet of 250 population, recruits its 200 miners from its own residents and nearby towns, notably Kincaid and Taylorville—the latter the Christian county seat, nearby.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK OCTOBER 1st IN CHICAGO

Changes Plans: To Give Address At Banquet In Windy City

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Illinois Democrats announced today Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt would speak at a banquet in Chicago October 1.

Originally the Democratic nominee did not plan an appearance in Illinois on his present tour, but he decided to stop off on his way back to New York.

Woman, 100, Calls Doctor But Once In All Her Life

Lincolnton, N. C. Sept. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Susan Abernethy celebrated her 100th birthday here and recalled the days when she was a chum of Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson. She says the world is just as good, if not better than in olden days; that she enjoys her clay pipe and thinks automobiles and paved roads are "wonderful."

Only once in her life has Mrs. Abernethy been visited by a physician. That was four years ago when she had smallpox, and even then she refused to go to bed.

Linen Shower For Mrs. Mulnix

Last evening Mrs. Ross Crawford was hostess to a group of sixteen friends at her home in honor of Mrs. John Mulnix, nee Freda Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Mulnix returned Tuesday evening from a wedding trip, and on Wednesday evening a number of friends held a charity for them at their Galena avenue apartment.

Last evening bridge was the amusement for the evening, with Mrs. E. L. Soper being awarded the favor for high score; and Miss Fawn Diehl receiving the second favor. Mrs. Mulnix received many lovely pieces of linen in the shower which was a feature of the affair, accompanied by the good wishes of her friends, for happiness. Autumn garden flowers were the decorations for the occasion. A tempting luncheon was served. Mrs. E. G. Becky of Sterling was an out-of-town guest.

Shower and Reception for Newlyweds

Mrs. Florence Dietelhoff and Mrs. Preston Wolcott entertained with a reception and shower at the home of the former in Amboy Monday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frank, newlyweds of Lima Center, Wis. who were married at the Lutheran parsonage in Rockford, Saturday, Sept. 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank, the latter a sister of Mrs. Dietelhoff, were completely surprised when fifty of their relatives and friends came to the Dietelhoff home Monday night to congratulate them.

A pleasant evening was spent enjoying various games, guessing contests, stunts and also a short program, which was given.

Mrs. Roy Long sang "I Never Knew," and Rev. Edwards gave two readings, "A Yankee in Love," and "Tradin' Joe," by James Whitcomb Riley. Mrs. Roy Long and Mrs. Dietelhoff sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Zula Miller accompanied the soloists on the piano.

Mrs. Preston Wolcott gave a reading, "If I Could Be By You." Mrs. Long sang a parody on "O Promise Me," which was followed by a mock wedding. Doris Green was the sweet, bashful bride and Celesta Barlow the proud bridegroom. Both wore comical, ancient costumes. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edwards in his inimitable fashion.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, after the program. Doris Green, attired as a Negro washer woman, then appeared with prettily decorated baskets which she placed in front of the bride. When the bride and the groom investigated the contents of the baskets they found many beautiful and useful gifts.

Comical verses accompanying these gifts were read causing much merriment.

Mr. and Mrs. Dietelhoff were then completely surprised when C. B. Miller presented them with a half dozen hand painted salad plates in behalf of the guests, reminding them of their wedding anniversary and hoping the coming years would be happy ones. Mrs. Dietelhoff in a few well chosen words, thanked their friends. The guests departed at a late hour, having spent a very happy evening.

The out of town guests who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Miller of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller and Floyd Miller of Pawpaw Harvey Reitz and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vaupel of Ashton.

Pears For Your Autumn Menus

Pears of some variety are in the market almost the whole year through, but the delicious Bartlett pear is at its best during August and September. Many other high quality varieties follow the Bartlett, prolonging the season into the late fall.

In spite of their seeming sweetness, pears are somewhat acid and consequently are an excellent tonic fruit. Their flavor is refreshing, tending to tone up a tired summer appetite. Used fresh in salads, fruit cups and desserts, or as a breakfast fruit, they provide a welcome change.

Unlike most fruits, pears are best picked green and allowed to ripen in storage. In this way the fruit develops better flavor and finer texture than three-ripened. In choosing pears, those on the verge of greenness rather than ripeness are desirable.

Baked pears may be prepared like baked apples and are especially good for breakfast with bacon and eggs. If wanted for dessert, they can be pared and cored sprinkled with sugar and baked, covered, in a moderate oven for an hour.

Served with whipped cream and ginger cookies, they make an inviting last course for an August dinner. Two tablespoons with each pear makes the fruit pleasantly sweet for the average taste. A little powdered ginger mixed with the sugar adds zest to the fruit, too.

Stuffed pear salad always is popular and when fresh, perfectly ripe fruit is used the salad is delicious. Cream cheese mixed with preserved ginger and finely chopped nut meats is a delectable combination. Chill pears, pare and cut in halves lengthwise and remove cores. Sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Drain the ginger from its syrup and mince. Work nuts and ginger into cream cheese, adding cream if necessary to make soft enough to mold. Mold in small balls and place a ball in the cavity of each pear. Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing to which orange juice has been added.

Fritters made with pears are very good, too. Served with ginger sauce, pear fritters make a fitting dessert for a September vegetable dinner. Pare fruit and cut in very thin slices. Drop into fritter batter and fry in deep hot fat.

A WORTHY AMENDMENT.

One bit of good news that almost passed unnoticed in the crush of more spectacular doings was the fact that Texas recently added its ratification to the lame duck amendment to the U. S. constitution.

This, of course, is the amendment which would advance the date of presidential inaugurations and congressional session openings from March to January, and which would, thereby, do away with the evil of the "short term" in which defeated congressmen legislate for the country after having been rejected at the polls.

Fifteen states have now ratified the amendment. Twenty-one more must do so before the amendment goes into effect. It is to be hoped that these 21 ratifications will be obtained without delay during the coming winter legislative sessions.

It is worth repeating, once more, that here is an amendment which simply cannot be opposed on any ground except that if selfish partisan politics. There can be no excuse for defeating it, or even for delaying ratification. Citizens in states which have not yet passed on it would do well to insist that their legislatures take it up at the earliest possible moment.

JAPAN'S STATE OF MIND.

The fact that great numbers of Japanese have become all excited because officials of the branch of an American bank, in Tokio, took some photographs of Japanese business and industrial buildings recently, shows how large small matters may bulk when public opinion is inflamed.

It is perfectly obvious, of course, that there was no ulterior motive behind the taking of those pictures. But the Japanese public believes that the United States is getting all set for a war with Japan. It points to the fact that the U. S. fleet is concentrated in the Pacific. It repeats rumors about mysterious American aviation stations in the Aleutian Islands. And it sees in these photographs evidence of preparations for air raids on the Japanese capital.

Matters being so, it surely behooves Americans in the Orient to take especial pains in the near future to avoid strengthening Japanese fears.

MEANINGLESS FORMALITIES.

New York opened an extensive and costly new subway system a few days ago. But the elaborate formalities usually attendant upon the inauguration of a new civic improvement were absent. These were no ceremonies at all. When the subway was ready the doors were thrown open, the trains started running—and that was all there was to it.

Here, it seems to us, is a plan other cities might well copy. As a general thing we waste altogether too much time and effort on meaningless civic ceremonies. A new bridge, a new street, a new rapid transit line—we have speeches, flowers, and bands of bright ribbon, and all the rest, and it all means just a little more distraction for city officials who have enough to do anyway.

New York's idea looks good. No ceremony—just open the doors and let 'er go.

THE FRENCH MARKET PASSES.

Another of America's historic landmarks—the old French Market at New Orleans—is to be sacrificed in the name of progress.

The city council there recently announced that the rambling old building is to be replaced by a $700,000 white tile structure, which will doubtless be far more sanitary and modern.

At the same time, New Orleans will hardly be the same without the old market, where one could buy anything from a rose to a veal cutlet. It was built in 1791 and was probably the largest market place in what is now the United States when it was completed.

Andrew Jackson fed his men there after they had beaten the British regulars at Chalmette, and members of Lafayette's pirate band sipped their coffee under its rambling roof.

The loss of the old French Market will mean the end of a very definite part of New Orleans' charm.

If the time arrives when our people find it necessary to pay their sons salary or wages to fight in defense of the country, that day marks the beginning of the end of this republic.—General John F. O'Ryan, U. S. Army.

If the people are to control the government, they must pay the taxes to support it.—Calvin Coolidge, ex-president of the United States.

Political parties are judged not only by their promises but by their performances as well. — Ex-President Coolidge.

Daily Health Talk

"A number of years ago it was more or less fashionable to sport a gold tooth. This explains the prevalence of this type of dental correction in the mouths of many persons of fifty years or older. And while from a fundamental standpoint this precious metal has entirely lost favor, it is justly popular because of its unique utility features," states Dr. L. W. Nober, Superintendent of the State Department of Health's dental section.

"As a matter of fact, as a filling material nothing has yet been discovered that possesses to such a satisfactory degree the characteristics demanded for tooth restoration. While neither its color nor its cold and heat conducting efficiency are in its favor, its possesses more qualities as an ideal cavity filler than does any known metal. No wonder then that the dentists use gold for inlays and for ordinary back-teeth filling.

"It is entirely a false notion, entertained by thousands nevertheless, that dentists employ gold for the purpose of stopping up the bill. Quite on the contrary, gold is used by them because in the long run it is by far the most economical type of filling that is available. Like a good and true friend gold, better than any other known substance, stands the stress and wears well.

"Therefore, if the tooth to be restored or filled is reasonably well under cover, and even though the gold will show slightly don't insist upon something else 'just as good'—because there isn't any.

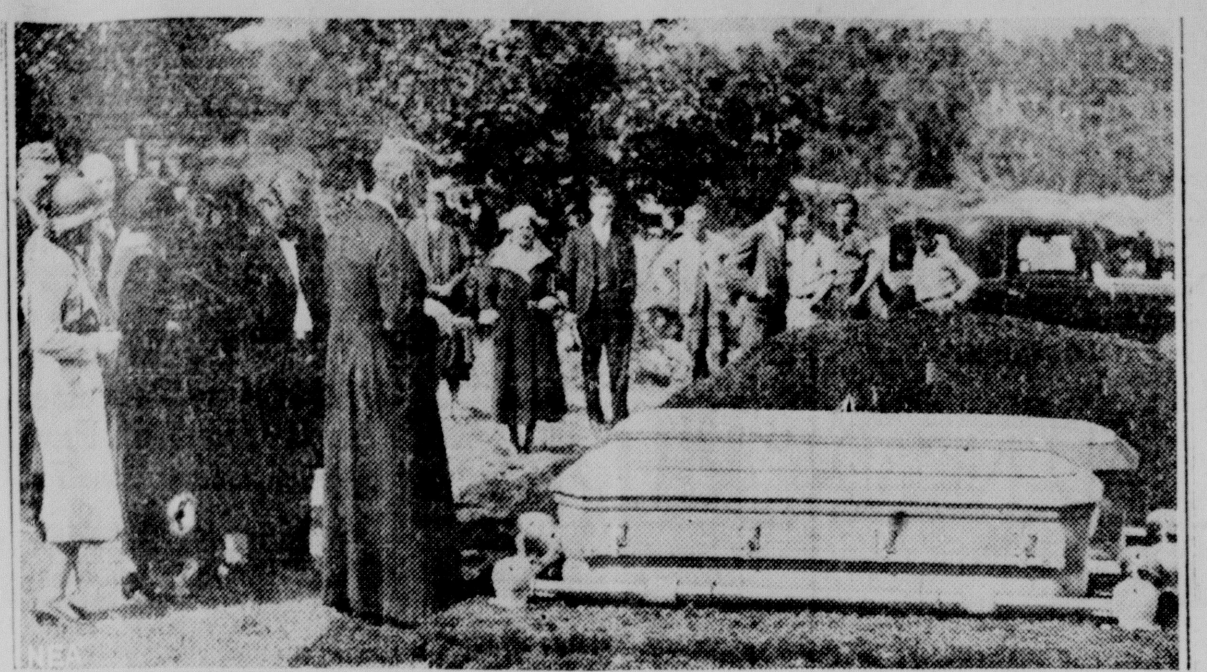

"However, if from early youth straight through the years, one will bestow daily time and attention upon his mouth, it may never become necessary to exchange pocket gold for teeth gold. Think it over!"

To the physician the eye is a window through which he might look literally to observe the inside of the body.

To accomplish this the physician uses an ophthalmoscope, an instrument which throws light into the eye. It has a series of lenses by means of which he can magnify what is to be seen, as well as to

Slayer and Slain Wife Share Same Grave

In life, Charles Du Bois, Tuckahoe, N. Y., gem dealer, wished to rid himself of his wife, Edith—and is believed to have murdered her, hiding her body in a cellar crypt at their Plymouth, Mass., summer home. When discovery seemed imminent he shot himself. In death, they are together again—and this photo shows the double funeral service at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree, Mass. In the group at the left stand Rosalie Du Bois, daughter of Jules, a brother of Charles; Mrs. John Du Bois; Mrs. Cecelia Du Bois, mother, and her son, Jules Du Bois.

Pilgrims Honor Penn

To commemorate the 250th anniversary of William Penn's migration to America, the Penn Club and Friends' Historical Society are visiting scenes of his life in England. The pilgrims are seen here as they view the Great Quaker's former home at Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire, England.

render the different parts of the eye clearly visible.

By means of the ophthalmoscope the examiner can observe the immediate structures of the eye, as well as the optic nerve and the eye blood vessels.

The optic nerve and the retina, which is the nerve lining membrane of the eye, are actually portions of the brain. Looking at them the physician seems much magnified a part of the living brain.

In examining the eye with the ophthalmoscope, there is revealed to the experienced physician many evidences concerning the health or disease of the body. Remotely placed organs such as the kidney and the heart leave upon the structures of the eye an impress of their condition. Kidney disease, heart disease, brain tumors or structural changes in the brain, arteriosclerosis—all of these and many other conditions can be diagnosed through the eye.

This is not meant to imply that examination of the eye with the ophthalmoscope and its various structures can serve as a substitute for other forms of physical and clinical examination, but rather that such an examination gives additional and valuable information.

Of course, the ophthalmoscope is of value, too, in examining different portions of the eyeball, the covering membranes, the lens, the diaphragm-like iris, and the humors which fill the space in the eyeball.

In recent years several valuable instruments have been developed which together with the ophthalmoscope, make possible very thorough and revealing examinations of the eye structures.

"The monkeys' tail seemed very strong and Duncy said, 'Naught will go wrong while I am in this dandy swing, as long as I hold tight.

"I know the rest of you all yearn to swing. When I have had my turn, I'll let you try your luck at it. Watch me! I'm swinging right."

"It isn't your fault," Copy cried, "that you are having such a ride. Get, give the monkeys credit. All you do is have the fun."

"They have to swing you to and fro, and my, how they can make you go. I will be glad to take my turn when your long turn is done."

Just then wee Scouty simply roared when one monk let go of the board. This toppled little Duncy, but he landed on his feet.

At first it startled him a bit, but then he cried, "How can I sit upon a swing when it goes plof? That isn't any treat."

The zoo man smiled and said, "Well, son, the monks were simply having fun. I'll promise that the next to ride will have no chance to 'ave."

So Windy cried, "I'll have a try," and soon the lad was swinging high. The others smiled when shortly he had nerve enough to wave.

Just then a little lioness ran by and Scouty said, "I guess I'll show you lads a little trick. A leopard I will make."

"Give me some paint and I'll have lots of fun just dobbing on big spots. Although I'll do a good job, very little time 'twill take."

They caught the lioness and then brave Scouty went to work again with paint the zoo man gave him. "I am pretty good," said he.

He dobed the big spots here and there and seemed to do the task with care, but it looked very funny and the Tinies laughed in glee.

"Duncy has a strange experience in the next story."

$4,000,000 Bridge Opened

Spanning the Turtle Creek Valley, on the Lincoln Highway just east of Pittsburgh, is the latest word in highway bridge engineering. It is the $4,000,000 George Westinghouse bridge, shown above. It towers 200 feet above the valley, and is more than 1500 feet long. The middle arch, 425 feet long, is said to be the longest reinforced concrete arch in the United States. The bridge is said to save motorists 20 minutes in a drive from one side of the valley to the other.

couple of home run records, including that of the mighty George Herman (Babe) Ruth. Foxx cracked his 55th and 56th of the season yesterday as the Athletics dropped a 10-inning struggle to the champion Yankees, 8 to 7.

Tied Hack's Record
The total of 56 homers ties the record for right-hand hitters, set by Hack Wilson with the Chicago Cubs in 1930. Another for the Maryland Mauler would break Wilson's mark, and four more would tie it.

The Senators remained in the scrap for second by beating the Boston Red Sox again, 4 to 2. General Alvin Crowder yielded but four hits to score his 14th straight triumph and his 25th of the year.

Over in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued to pour it on the champion Chicago Cubs, who are in no mood to be bothered by such trifles. Hal Smith, a youngster purchased from Kansas City, set the champs with several reserves in the line-up, down with six hits and blanked them, 7 to 0. Paul Waner hit his 59th two-bagger of the year, tying Chuck Klein's National League record.

Brooklyn tightened its hold on third place by taking its final from the Giants, 7 to 2, as Glenn Wright and Joe Stripp hit the ball hard. George Puccinelli and Charlie Wilson, Cardinals—Their homers helped down Reds.

Joe Stripp, Dodgers—Led attack on Giant pitching with triple and two singles.
Alvin Crowder, Senators—Won 25th game of season and 14th in a row, holding Red Sox to four hits.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

THE BALKAN SWEEP

On Sept. 23, 1918, allied armies in the Balkans swept back the mixed German and Bulgarian troops, cutting off the First Bulgarian Army at Priplep from communication with the Second Army in the Dobruja section.

Germans were in a wild rout at Vendeuil, on the Oise, giving up the position to allied troops. British, northwest of St. Quentin, captured strong positions.

British cavalry, fighting hand-to-hand along the Mediterranean coast, pushed through to occupy Haifa and Acre. Chagrined at successive defeats, Turks east of the Jordan cut off the Damascus-Medina railroad to the north and retreated in mad flight southward.

GOOD THOUGHTS

To bring the idea of courage within the range of one's own understanding and demonstration, we may ask these questions: Is our courage enlisted on the side of God, good? Is our fight a righteous one? Is health God's purpose for man? Is happiness God's gift to His likeness? Is prosperity a spiritual fact? Is God with us? The true answer is always in the affirmative; and in the long run the divine affirmative triumphs over the mortal negative.

—The Christian Science Journal.
Be courageous. Be independent. Only remember where the true courage and independence come from.

—Phillips Brooks

Courage conquers all things; it even gives strength to the body.

—Ovid

The intent and not the deed is in our power; and therefore who dares greatly Does greatly.

—Brown

Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

—Deuteronomy 31.

20 YEARS OF ILL HEALTH

Then Mrs. Duke Discovered Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Of her own accord, Mrs. Duke sat down and wrote us a glowing tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:
"I have been constipated all my life, which has been about 20 years, up until last year when I started eating your ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating it, people tell me I am looking better, and I am sure that I feel a great deal better."—Mrs. L. W. Duke, 210 Hardin Ave., College Park, Ga.

Constipation is usually caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help give them tone. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides both of these dietary necessities, as well as iron for the blood.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much more natural it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—serious cases with every meal—for most types of constipation, ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — Those gentlemen in charge of Republican campaign speakers are busy now asking themselves how it happened that they overlooked Dolly Gann as a spellbinder back in 1928.

For the sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis has developed into one of their prize orators on the stump. She is regarded as a big gun of the Republican artillery, and a strong drawing card.

And probably no one is more surprised than Mrs. Gann herself at her success.

At first she confined her speeches to more or less obscure gatherings of women here and there more for the fun of it than anything else. She probably would have laughed then if someone had suggested she would soon be graduated into the big league class of political speakers.

IN DEMAND—But she has. G. O. P. chieftains now use her on tough assignments just as they would a man. And the jovial, dynamic "second lady of the land" has made good in their estimation with a bang.

Just how good she is Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, head of the Republican campaign speakers' bureau, has testified. He is authority for the statement that he gets more requests for her than he can fill.

Her success, perhaps, lies in an uncanny ability to size up an audience and talk to them about their interests. If her audience is composed mostly of women she tells them what President Hoover has done for child welfare, for the home.

She doesn't mention "Brother Charlie" Curtis in her

Marching On—To Oblivion or Restoration

Though he approaches 76 years of age, the former Kaiser Wilhelm II strides forward with energy in this, his latest picture. It was taken on the sands at Zandvoort on the north seacoast of Holland, where the former All-Highest is spending a vacation. The former Kaiser is in the center with the white cap; note how completely his beard, mustache and hair have greyed.

speeches. Her praise is bestowed on Mr. Hoover.

She talks about her brother after she has made her speech. If she is asked about him privately, it is then that she gives the Curtis side of it.

SHE DRAWS A CROWD —

Last winter in Omaha the national committeewoman asked her to come out to help combat champions of the anti-prohibition cause in that section.

The day that Mrs. Gann was to make her speech a terrific blizzard swept through Omaha. The sponsors were convinced no one would turn out in that storm to hear a political speech even if it was to be delivered by Dolly Gann.

But when the hour for her speech arrived the hall was packed.

A BOOK A DAY

HERE'S STORY OF LIFE'S
EVOLUTION IN FORM

A handy device for the man who wants to get a clear picture of the evolution of the earth and life which it bears is being offered now in "The History of Evolution," by John B. Sparks.

This, instead of being a regular book, is a large-sized species of map, or chart, measuring when unfolded some four or five feet in length. It portrays, on a neat time scale, the manner in which the inanimate earth developed, the times and circumstances in which life first appeared and the way in which the life stream, eddying and swirling in a turbulent, seemingly hit-or-miss fashion, finally presented mother earth with the human race.

The divisions charting these developments run, roughly, in parallel columns, so that you can see just what happened when, and how it was related to developments in other spheres of activity. Furthermore, when the chart reaches the era of organized human society it charts the development of the different races and nations of men.

In the main the chart is based on accepted historical, geological and archaeological findings. It impressed me as a useful and informative thing for the man who wants to have a simple, understandable guide to the perplexing mazes of pre-history.

Sea gulls, apparently forced ashore by storms, threatened serious damage to farm crops in the vicinity of Pensacola, Fla.

PEACE PLANES IN WAR

London—The conversion of large commercial transport planes into craft suitable for warfare is seen by Handley Page, British plane manufacturer. He says that some of the huge bi-planes constructed for airways can be transformed into

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I don't know whether the public has noticed it, but my recent work lacks the vigor of my earlier things."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Josef HOFMANN...
-World Famous Pianist-
INVENTED A STEERING DEVICE FOR AUTOMOBILES, AND BUILT ONE OF THE FIRST STEAM-PROPELLED CARS IN GERMANY.

ONE TINY CABBAGE APHID, IN A PERIOD OF SIX MONTHS, COULD HAVE 564,087,257,509,154,652 DESCENDANTS, IF ALL LIVED AND BREED NORMALLY.

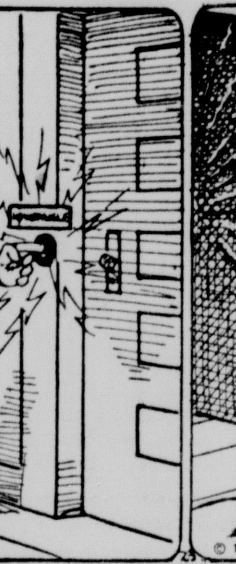

Josef Hofmann had talents along two widely separated channels. Had he not been an exceptionally adept student of the piano... a "child prodigy"... he undoubtedly would have gone far in the mechanical world. For a time it seemed that his interest in automobiles might crowd out his music. Young Hofmann was made to work too hard at his music when only a child. At the age of 10 he made a concert tour in America. This almost ended his career, for his health broke under the strain, and years elapsed before he regained his technical skill.

Hooks and Slides

Wesley Cheek Ferrell is one of the greatest pitchers in the major leagues, but he ought to give up the art of pantomime. He can make money by pitching, but the only thing he'll ever win by pantomime is a kick in the pants.

Wes was suspended recently for 10 days without pay by that long-suffering manager, Roger Peckinbaugh. On the basis of Ferrell's $18,000 pay check, that means more than $1,000 subtracted from his stipend. The reason was a little play acting.

the play acting.

But Mr. Ferrell has been hunting for it ever since he first set foot into a major league ball park. Time after time, upon being removed from the box, Wes was kicked the dirt viciously with his spiked shoes, pounded the ball into his glove petulantly and gave other childish evidence of his dissatisfaction with the order of things.

TEAMMATE THE GOAT—

Often he has stared his temperamental pantomime at the expense of an infielder who had dared to boot a ball in a game in which the great Ferrell was pitching.

Ferrell's $1,000 kick in the pants has been a long time coming. Even-tempered Peckinbaugh might have escaped a lot of trouble if he had administered it at the first indication that Wes was going in for acting. Then he might not have had a prima donna on his hands these last few years.

As it is, there is talk now of removing Peck as manager, Ferrell having given a story to the newspapers to the effect that Peck of late made him pitch with a sore arm!

If Peck had rudely squelched Ferrell's Thespian ambitions several years ago, the Indians' manager might not now find himself facing the guillotine.

Then, when Peck ordered the young man back into the wings,

STAN BALL, an agent for cattle interests, faces ASPER DELO in his office. Asper is accused of killing men sent to check his timbering activities at Three Rivers. Ball announces he is making a personal check. DeLo says he will personally see that he does not make the check.

Leaving the office, Stan saves a girl from kidnapers. She proves to be DONA DELO, Asper's daughter. When Stan learns her name he tells her he is STANLEY BLACK and slips away.

DUDLEY WINTER, in love with Dona, agrees to go to Three Rivers and bring Asper back. Dona goes with him and at a little ranch place on the way Dudley puts a plan of marriage to Dona, hoping she will take this plan of getting Asper DeLo to return. She agrees but holds back when Stan Ball, on his way to Three Rivers, steps out of the night and kisses her.

At Three Rivers they meet SWERGIN, Asper's timber boss, and he says he is ready to kill Ball, that Ball shot a ranger. Dona decides to ride in the hunt for Ball. She catches a bad horse and has to try to ride him to keep up her pride.

Dona rides the roan. Swergin tells her she must not ride without a guard as Ball is a killer and is at large.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

DONA and Malloy rode around the corrals and when they were well out of sight of the main buildings above them the cowboy swerved to the left. They doubled back, following a wash that hid them from the camp.

They were climbing out of the wash when a rider galloped from the timber and descended upon them amid a rattling shower of rocks. The rider was Swergin and he was angry.

"You take this girl back to camp," he shouted. "It's ride along to see that you do it. You better not try any more sneaking tricks on me!"

Malloy sat his horse and an amused grin pulled at the corners of his wide mouth. He looked at Dona for acceptance or refusal and it was plain that what she wanted would be done. For a moment she considered. Her rapid appraisal of Swergin told her that he would not be denied without a fight. Malloy, she knew, would not sidestep any action the timber boss might start—even to gun play. With a smile she motioned to her escort that they would go back.

They rode in silence to the camp where Swergin ordered their horses put away. Dona made no protest and she felt Malloy's eyes on her as they others and share the danger? I can't lie around camp." He captured her other hand.

Dona met his ardent gaze and did not try to free herself. For a long minute they looked into each other's eyes and Dona felt the old thrill beginning to lay hold of her heart. She felt the same fear, too, that would not let her be swept away by Dudley's eager glance. Swergin's voice rose from the corral where he was talking to Malloy.

"Anybody that is fool enough to ride up the Pass Creek trail will get a bullet from the bushes! That's where Gillette got it."

An accusing light came into Dudley's eyes. "You were going to ride to Pass Creek," he said, jerking Dona a little in his impatience.

She nodded. "I was foolish, I guess, but it didn't seem so dangerous to me."

"The next time you ride I go with you," he stated flatly.

ASPER DELO did not ride with the posse. He set out by himself with his rifle across his saddle.

At the edge of the clearing surrounding the camp he pulled up beside a pile of logs. A man was working with an ax beside the pile. Asper halted him.

Can you tell me where to hit the trail to Pass Creek?" he demanded.

The man straightened and looked at Asper. It was plain that he did not recognize his employer. "Up to the red rim." The man pointed to where a rim of red rocks broke out of the timber above. "Then a try began to grow rough. Great rocks rose out of the growth of aspens that had been left standing by the timber cutters. Asper grunted as he noted that all of the pine had been cut clean except for second growth and young stuff. The drag lines had wrought havoc with the country and it was eroding badly. Swergin was a bit too much of a close cutter, Asper observed, but he was able to handle the forest officials.

As he rode along the rim he was able to stay under cover fairly well. He proceeded with more caution as he got deeper into the broken country. Brush and rock piles offered excellent hideouts and he knew he was at a disadvantage should Ball be lying in hiding where he had to pass.

What's become of th' ole time wife that manufactured a dinner instead of j'est assemblin' one? Some folks specialize in makin' a short story long.

Another warning by which the young man about to take up major league baseball might profit is: "Don't talk to yourself."

Was apparently acquired the habit early of talking to himself. After the Boston Red Sox had posted his delivery for three hits and worked a walk out of him in the first inning, Ferrell broke out into a soliloquy impregnated with harsh invective.

Between his kicking up of dust, pounding the ball into his glove, heaving his manly bosom and throwing verbal rocks at himself, it must have been quite a show for the Boston fans.

Then, when Peck ordered the young man back into the wings,

An accusing light came into Dudley's eyes. "You were going to ride to Pass Creek!" he said.

to be a rotter, Dona, but you have me at a disadvantage. It isn't fair. What chance have I to be a man in your eyes unless I get out with the others and share the danger? I can't lie around camp." He captured her other hand.

Dona met his ardent gaze and did not try to free herself. For a long minute they looked into each other's eyes and Dona felt the old thrill beginning to lay hold of her heart. DUDLEY sat on the porch with Dona for half an hour. Then he went down to the corrals. He was eager to learn all he could and to get more practice at riding. Dona watched him idly. Her mind was busy with many thoughts. A man rode up and halted and Dona remembered him as one of the posse. "Is my father, Mr. DeLo, with your men?" she called.

The man shook his head. "He didn't go out with us. I'm looking for Swergin. Have you seen him?"

Dona replied that the timber boss had been at the corrals and the man rode on. By this time Dudley had a horse saddled and had mounted. Dona watched him ride around the corral and down the slope. She smiled. Dudley was game all right and eager to show her he was her equal. Then a disturbing thought crept into her mind. Had her father decided to ride the Pass Creek trail? Her own decision, prompted by Swergin's warning, made her almost sure that he had. And he had gone alone. That was the very thing he had wanted to do, to meet Ball single-handed and have it out. The thought so upset her that she left the porch and headed for the corrals.

She did not find Malloy or Swergin there but she saw the rider who had halted at the porch. He was turning his horse loose and dragging a saddle to the fence. She waited until he had gone, then entered the corral. Certainty that her father was in danger made her hurry. She caught the roan without trouble and swung the heavy saddle to his back. He seemed to have accepted her as master and did not fight when she mounted.

Dona rode straight across the clearing in the direction in which Malloy had indicated that Pass Creek lay. Seeing a man working at a pile of logs, she halted to ask directions. He straightened and looked at her curiously. He was Spanish and deliberate in his speech.

"Up to the red rim, then a mile along the rim and you hit the trail," pointed a sun-darkened arm toward the upper slopes. As an afterthought he added, "One rider went that way a half hour ago."

"Was he a big man on a gray horse?" Dona asked.

The man nodded and tried the edge of his ax blade on his thumb, then returned to his chopping.

Dona put the roan to a gallop and headed toward the red rim. She was sure now that her father had ridden straight into the locality where Ball was hiding. She did not pause to consider the danger into which she might be riding. She was sure Asper would ride slowly and that she could overtake him. Her plan was simple. She would catch up with him and he would return to camp rather than risk danger to her. She was so taken with this plan that she promised herself she would ride with him every day. That would be sure to keep him out of dangerous territory.

The trail became more broken and she entered rough country. Finally she reached the end of the rim and swung to the left down into the narrow canyon. She had not ridden a quarter of a mile down this trail until she realized that it was extremely dangerous for a hunter to follow. A man could hide above the trail on either side. He could cache his horse in the thick growth and waylay anyone who came past. She pictured Gillette riding down that trail and being ambushed. In sudden fear for her father Dona abandoned cover and rode at a gallop.
